

EDUCATOR TO EDUCATOR

Information Technology (IT) is changing the landscape of education today. No other phenomena has had such a deep and rapid impact on the way we educate and the way we learn.

Today's educators are constantly being challenged to understand and acquire IT skills, to teach IT as a subject, and to integrate IT into the classroom and the curriculum. The Educator-to-Educator Institute (E2E) provides today's educators with timely and relevant IT professional development.

The E2E Institute at the NWCET

E2E is part of the NorthWest Center for Emerging Technologies at Bellevue Community College. For more information about E2E, contact:

Duncan Burgess,
E2E Director
(425) 564-4215
e2e@bcc.ctc.edu

www.nwcet.org/e2e

Designed by BCC Printing Services
Printed by The Boeing Corporation
February, 2001

The NorthWest Center for Emerging Technologies

E2E offers you—

- IT courses for all educators at all levels
- In-service professional development in IT, custom designed for your school, district, consortium, or college
- Courses delivered to your site or onsite at NWCET
- Courses offered online and at convenient times throughout the year
- Skills upgrade courses in all IT skills and disciplines
- Proven “how-to’s” for integrating IT across the curriculum
- Strategies and tactics for managing IT education in credit and non-credit environments
- State-of-the-art computer classrooms and labs dedicated to IT professional development for educators

E2E's Services and Resources

- Training based on the NWCET's nationally recognized work in IT Skill Standards
- Best practices for incorporating and managing IT in education
- Updates on industry trends and advances for IT faculty and administrators
- Activities customized for specific professional development needs
- A variety of delivery modes, including online and video
- Training opportunities year round to fit into educators' schedules
- Revenue sharing opportunities for affiliated institutions
- Creative partnerships between educational institutions and industry throughout the region and nation

The Educator-to-Educator Institute (E2E) serves educators throughout the Pacific Northwest and across the U.S. Our mission is to help bridge the gap between education and industry by providing professional development in Information Technology (IT) for educators at all levels from kindergarten through college and at all skill levels from beginner to expert. E2E develops and shares best practices and resources for campus or district-level IT administrators, coordinators, technical staff, and all educators who use (or want to use) IT in the classroom.

